

Camping at Big Snowbird Creek

Brian and I spent a few days fishing and camped on the hard to find Big Snowbird.

Big Snowbird Creek has a variety of fish, including rainbows, browns, and brook trout in various areas of the creek. It's the "grand slam" of mountain fly fishing if you're willing or shall I say able to not only make the trip, but catch one of each type.

Brian and I both completed the Grand-Slam! I hear that there are some deep pools here where trout can get as big as 18-20 inches, unfortunately, we did not bag anything that large. Here are pictures of our camp trailer and Clam pop-up as well as a bunch of the fish we caught!

On the way home and only 20 minutes from the turn at hemlock hideaway it's definitely worth a stop at the historic Tapoco Mountain Lodge, great food and drink! We had the Ethan Smash Burger - one of the best ever!
